Your Email Address: Go Green + Save Green!

Looking for a way to “Go Green”? Providing us with your Email address is not only good for the environment, it saves the town money! Here’s how:

We currently mail out postcards for all items overdue by at least one week. By providing us with a current Email address that is checked regularly, you can receive your notices electronically... you’ve gone green by cutting down on the amount of paper used.

Providing an Email address also saves the expense of a postage stamp on every envelope. By saving on postage costs the library can control the rising costs of this budget line and save the taxpayers money in our annual budget... now you’ve saved green as well!

Simply ask us to check your library record for an Email address the next time you visit the library and enjoy the convenience of Email notices and the satisfaction of going green!

Indian Wars of New England Monday, October 19 at 6:30

Michael Tougias, award-winning author of 18 books, offers a slide lecture on the conflicts between New England’s Native Americans and the Colonists. From the Pilgrims first arrival in New England to the closing days of the French and Indian War, Tougias takes the audience on a historic journey as the Colonists and Indians fought for control of New England. Western Massachusetts sits on an ancient and bloody battlefield, and the presentation will make special mention of local historical landmarks.

This program is partially sponsored by the South Hadley Cultural Council, a local agency, which is supported by the Massachusetts Cultural Council, a state agency.

Youth Services Corner

Halloween is coming which is always a fun-filled holiday for kids. Our children’s craft this month will be a Halloween activity. On Wednesday, October 28 at 3:30, children will be making pompom spiders. We’ll also include a Halloween story to enjoy and have Halloween treats to take home. Pre-register for this program by either calling or stopping by the library.

The library staff loves seeing children in their Halloween outfits so feel free to stop by in costume and get a treat on Halloween. Since it’s a Saturday this year you’ll only have until 1:00PM when we close!

Our weekly Story Time continues each Thursday at 10:30 for pre-school age children. No pre-registration is necessary.

Spirits & Messages from the Other Side Wednesday, October 28 at 6:30

According to local medium Lisa Marie Lanno, our loved ones may be "gone" to us, but they are always with us, whether through a subtle sign, a dream, or their actual words brought through by a Medium. They want to be acknowledged, thought of, remembered, and called upon for help and strength. It is a wonderful feeling to get the closure that we sometimes need to help us with our own grief, and a relief to know that they are well and happy on the Other Side, doing all the things they enjoy while still watching over us. Join us for an evening full of though-provoking moments and surprises.

Aspiring Entrepreneurs Series Continues

- Finding the Balance & Dealing with Roadblocks—October 7 @6:00
Being a woman in business means balancing your family life with your career, while dealing with the challenges of being successful and keeping it all together. Hear from the women who have been there, and how they're making it happen every day.
- Building Your Business & Creating a Vision for the Future—October 14 @6:00
There's more to running a business than being good at your craft. How do you market it to your clients when 68% of all business is lost to poor follow up? How do you not waste your marketing efforts chasing dead end leads? Who should you make key relationships with? You'll also learn about the importance of branding and maintaining a professional image to win the client. For more information on the seminars, contact Angela Lussier at 413-426-2720 or angela@my365degrees.com
